

Wilson: "President Obama believes our great country is up to the challenge."

Washington, D.C. - Immediately following President Obama's address to a joint session of Congress tonight, Congressman Charlie Wilson (OH-6) released the following statement:

"President Obama clearly and honestly laid out the grave challenges we face as a nation. He thoughtfully outlined a plan that includes tough choices. He believes our great country is up to the challenge. Like him, I believe we have been through worse and come out better. We can do it again. The only real danger we face is doing too little. I appreciated the President's candid address and look forward to seeing the specifics on Thursday as President Obama releases his budget."
